Commentary

Global equities experienced a historic selloff in Q1 driven by the COVID-19 pandemic. All sectors and regions finished lower. The energy sector was the worst performer as the price of oil came under pressure from the dual shocks of COVID-19 and the Saudi Arabia-Russia price war. We believe we were well-positioned heading into this unforeseen crisis based on our higher quality bias. With growing evidence that a deep global recession is unavoidable, we continue investing in well-managed companies that provide essential goods and services or possess a unique asset, with solid balance sheets and cash flow characteristics—attributes we believe should make them more resilient in an economic downturn.

Our portfolio held up better than the MSCI AC World Index in Q1 due to positive stock selection. In particular, relative results benefited from our industrial gases companies in the materials sector, our exchanges and insurance holdings in the financials sector and e-commerce-oriented businesses in the consumer discretionary sector. Amazon.com and Lonza Group were our top individual contributors in Q1. Amazon.com's e-commerce and web services businesses are distinctly well-positioned in this environment as social distancing behaviors reinforce existing secular trends toward online consumption and cloud software.

Switzerland-based Lonza Group is a global supplier of biotechnology and specialty ingredients for the life sciences, pharmaceuticals and food-processing industries. Top-line growth in the company's pharma/biotech division is being driven by strong demand for outsourced drug manufacturing. To date, drug demand from pharma and biotech does not appear to be impacted by the pandemic.

Among our biggest detractors in Q1 were Airbus and Petrobras. Shares of Airbus, an aerospace manufacturer, experienced sharp declines along with other air travel-related companies. We expect significant production cuts, but we have reasons to believe Airbus is better positioned than Boeing to take share in this duopolistic market due to Airbus's higher quality backlog, greater exposure to the narrow-body market and stronger balance sheet. In all but the most draconian scenarios of the virus, we believe the company will eventually return to delivering these in-demand narrow-body planes. There does need to be some backstopping of more airlines around the world to make sure Airbus has clients post the crisis, but the general direction for that occurring seems positive.

Petrobras is a Brazilian oil and gas company and our only energy sector holding. Amid a difficult environment, the company has announced a series of moves to reduce costs and shore up liquidity. It drew $8.7bn on its credit line and is now sitting at $14bn in cash. Petrobras sees some projects in the pre-salt play with break-evens in the low $20s/bbl but has stopped production on some shallow water fields. We believe the company's high level of liquidity, reductions to operating and capital expenditures, and shutdowns of uneconomic fields should help the company to weather this challenging environment.

Carefully consider the Fund's investment objective, risks and charges and expenses. This and other important information is contained in the Fund's prospectus and summary prospectus, which can be obtained by calling 800.344.1770. Read carefully before investing.

International investments involve special risks, including currency fluctuation, lower liquidity, different accounting methods and economic and political systems, and higher transaction costs. These risks typically are greater in emerging markets. Securities of small- and medium-sized companies tend to have a shorter history of operations, be more volatile and less liquid and may have underperformed securities of large companies during some periods. Growth securities may underperform other asset types during a given period.

MSCI All Country World Index measures the performance of developed and emerging markets. The index(es) are unmanaged; include net reinvested dividends; do not reflect fees or expenses; and are not available for direct investment.
