Investment Process

We seek to invest in companies that are uniquely positioned to benefit from the growth potential in emerging markets and that possess a sustainable global competitive advantage.

Sustainable Earnings

We believe over the long term a stock's price is directly related to the company's ability to deliver sustainable earnings. We determine a company's sustainable earnings based upon financial and strategic analyses. Our financial analysis of a company's balance sheet, income statement and statement of cash flows focuses on identifying historical drivers of return on equity. Our strategic analysis examines a company's competitive advantages and financial strength to assess sustainability.

Risk Analysis

We believe a disciplined risk framework allows greater focus on fundamental stock selection. We incorporate our assessment of company-specific, sustainability and macroeconomic risks into our valuation analysis to develop a risk-adjusted target price. Our risk-rating assessment includes a review of incident-based and empirical ESG factors and country-appropriate macroeconomic risk factors to which a company is exposed.

Valuation

We believe that investment opportunities develop when businesses with sustainable earnings are undervalued relative to peers and historical industry, country and regional valuations. We value a business and develop a price target for a company based on our assessment of the business's sustainable earnings and risk analysis.

Team Overview

Team experience, continuity and a rigorous investment process are the characteristics that we believe differentiate our team from other emerging markets investment managers. Research analysts have autonomy and ownership of their regions and accountability for the success of their ideas. Our team members bring deep experience and uncommon insight to their respective areas of responsibility.

Portfolio Discussion

Our portfolio underperformed the MSCI Emerging Markets Index in Q1. Several factors drove investor sentiment lower, including Russia's full-scale invasion of Ukraine, reduced global growth expectations, sustained inflation pressures, potentially strong responses to inflation by central banks and China's severe lockdowns in response to COVID-19 outbreaks. China and Russia were the benchmark's primary detractors, accounting for the index's entire quarterly decline. Meanwhile, Brazil, South Africa and Saudi Arabia were the benchmark's top contributors.

First and foremost, we are saddened by Russia's actions. Ukraine is bearing a tremendous human toll. We believe President Vladimir Putin's decision to invade Ukraine and escalate the conflict is a step backward for human rights, international relations and the global economy. We also believe Putin's decisions will have serious and potentially long-lasting repercussions for the people of his own country.

We are closely monitoring developments in Ukraine, the international community's response to Russia, as well as broader economic and financial markets consequences. In response to escalating sanctions and multiple exchanges suspending Russian stock trading, Artisan Partners' valuation committee decided to write down the value of our Russian positions to zero. As a result, the portfolio's six Russian positions were among the portfolio's leading individual detractors and collectively accounted for a majority of our relative underperformance this quarter. In addition, our position in Kaspi, a Kazakhstani financial technology company, was a significant detractor, as investors also shunned public companies domiciled in countries with close connections to Russia.

At the same time, our investment process is bottom up, and our analytical tools (i.e., financial and strategic analyses, country risk analysis and sustainability assessment) are focused on individual companies. Our analytical tools are meant to help us measure a company's capacity to react and/or to survive a crisis. Moreover, we do not determine our universe or make individual investment decisions based on a country of domicile or a government's behavior. We won't rule out investing in any non-developed market companies, so long as liquidity is sufficient, financial statements are reliable, and property rights are upheld. In our many years of investing, we have found companies can act in ways that are more responsible than their country of domicile.

While we have written down the value of the portfolio's Russian positions to zero, it remains clear they have strong balance sheets and will continue to operate. Our ESG reviews indicate each company has been operating within the scope of the law. We have also been engaging directly with each company to understand the situation on the ground and encourage each management team to express its concern about the war and desire for peace. As conditions change, we will act accordingly to the extent we are able.

Among our leading Q1 relative contributors were E Ink, FirstRand and Itaú Unibanco. E Ink is a Taiwan-based producer of ePaper technology—used in e-readers such as Amazon's Kindle—and electronic shelf label (ESL) systems. We believe E Ink is compelling both fundamentally and in environmental, social and governance (ESG) terms. The company is experiencing strong demand due in large part to rapid ESL adoption, and it keeps innovating, announcing its next generation of Advanced Color ePaper in March. E Ink's ePaper display technology provides users with greater flexibility and efficiency, while significantly reducing paper and energy consumption—power is not required to maintain a screen display. In addition, E Ink became the first display company to commit to using 100% renewable energy by 2030. From a social aspect, E Ink's devices have been helping to bridge the digital learning gap—even more so during the pandemic—and its reflective display technology contains no irritating backlight nor blue light that harms human eyes.

FirstRand is a South African financial services group providing banking and insurance products and services. The bank is one of the best capitalized banks in South Africa with a strong earnings profile and robust cost controls. We believe it's well positioned to capture credit demand growth as the pandemic recedes. In terms of ESG, FirstRand will no longer fund new coal-fired power stations and intends to stop financing new coal mining projects by 2026.

Shares of Itaú Unibanco, Latin America's largest private bank, rallied in Q1. The lender is showing good business momentum for 2022 as well as better operational execution. Its digital banking platform is growing rapidly, and the lender is reducing its number of branches, a combination beneficial to profitability. We believe Itaú's recent statements that it will not bid for Citigroup's Brazilian operations is a positive as the bank needs to stay focused on its existing strategy. Itaú has also been increasing its environmental commitment. Besides reducing its own emissions, it is advising other companies on cutting emissions. Along those lines, Itaú recently committed to halve emissions tied to its loans by 2030 and have a carbon neutral loan portfolio by 2050.

Portfolio Activity

Amid the turbulent quarter, we made some changes in the portfolio. However, no matter the market environment, valuation is an important part of our investment process—we always seek companies with sustainable growth characteristics and trading at compelling valuations.

We initiated positions in Lojas Renner and Depegar.com. Lojas Renner is Brazil's leading fashion retailer. It has a strong brick and mortar retail presence, but it is committed to growing its online business. Based on recent trends and the company's strategy, we believe foot traffic and in-store sales should keep improving even as online sales grow at a solid pace. We also believe management is on the right track with its strategy to develop a strong omnichannel business while continuing to invest in its lifestyle and fashion lines.

Despegar.com is the leading digital travel agency in Latin America. With the region's economies reopening and newer COVID-19 variants appearing to be less dangerous, we believe Despegar is well positioned to benefit from pent-up travel demand. We also like Despegar from an operational and valuation perspective. The company scaled back its business in response to the pandemic, which should be positive for margins if bookings pick up as expected. Furthermore, Despegar should gain market share organically and through strategic acquisitions that help broaden its capabilities and product offerings.

Conversely, we exited multiple positions in Q1—Commercial International Bank Egypt, Jumbo and Focus Energia. We exited the first two names with the purpose of redeploying capital into this quarter's new positions and higher conviction existing positions. Our position in Focus Energia came to an end as its acquisition by another Brazilian energy company closed in March.

Perspective

Emerging markets economies may have a challenging 2022, even if the war in Ukraine is resolved within the near future. Besides the war, additional economic headwinds could come from higher commodity costs, higher interest rates, currency market volatility and financial market uncertainty (e.g., Russia default).

If those economic and market dynamics are realized, they may sharpen demand among long-term investors for companies with the established abilities to generate sustainable growth and enduring earnings. We believe those abilities are more prevalent among companies that have unique access to growth and/or a long-term, defensible competitive advantage.

From a bottom-up perspective, we believe there is significant upside potential in parts of emerging markets given the combination of weak equity market conditions, generally positive corporate financial health and sustainable growth opportunities still intact for many companies. We believe the overall upside potential of our portfolio is significantly above average.

For example, e-commerce companies could see stronger demand in an inflationary environment. E-commerce companies have competitive advantages (e.g., price, logistics and scale) over many traditional retailers. We also believe banks could benefit from the expected rate environment.

We are hopeful about Latin America—the pandemic appears to be receding, and political conditions are less uncertain and less negative. Even in Brazil, the upcoming presidential election is between two well-known politicians. We also see meaningful opportunity in India and other parts of Asia.

Travel has long been an important way for us to build strong relations with management teams, to see companies up close and to better understand local markets. Given the current turbulence and emerging from a pandemic that kept us largely grounded for two years, we believe resuming our face-to-face visits will be especially valuable. As restrictions ease, traveling abroad is becoming more feasible, and we are cautiously optimistic we will do even more of it as the year progresses.

Current and future portfolio holdings are subject to risk. The value of portfolio securities selected by the investment team may rise or fall in response to company, market, economic, political, regulatory or other news, at times greater than the market or benchmark index. Investments in which the team has determined to have sustainable growth characteristics may underperform other securities and may not achieve their sustainable growth potential. A non-diversified portfolio may invest a larger portion of assets in securities of a smaller number of issuers and performance of a single issuer may affect overall portfolio performance greater than in a diversified portfolio. International investments involve special risks, including currency fluctuation, lower liquidity, different accounting methods and economic and political systems, and higher transaction costs. These risks typically are greater in emerging markets. Such risks include new and rapidly changing political and economic structures, which may cause instability; underdeveloped securities markets; and higher likelihood of high levels of inflation, deflation or currency devaluations. Securities of small- and medium-sized companies tend to have a shorter history of operations, be more volatile and less liquid and may have underperformed securities of large companies during some periods.

MSCI Emerging Markets Index measures the performance of emerging markets. The index(es) are unmanaged; include net reinvested dividends; do not reflect fees or expenses; and are not available for direct investment.
